Last week Bay St. Louis was called to mourn the death of Brother Odon. The end came peacefully, atter three months of suffering. For the past six years Brother Odon has been in charge of the parochial school and rounded out fifty years of teach ing last spring. His death is a distinct loss to this comunity. Brother macarius, the provincial of the order, came from New Orleans for the fun-

FOOTBALL.

By the time this reaches you the first match game of the sesson will have been played. Boys' High of New Orleans are always worthy opponents and we are not going to try to foretell the result. The first team is going "good" though and should give a real good account of itself. Last Sunday the self. Last Sunday the scrubs gave a real good scrimage and since then the team has rested up waiting for first blood. Several very good games have been booked for the season. Examination at St. Stanislaus Day School.

The pupils of St. Stanislaus Day School were examined last Thursday by Bros. Justin and Lawrence, professors of St. Stanislaus College. The questions put to the pupils covered all the school work of the September program.

The examiners were highly pleased with the results. They congratulated the pupils on the great interest and enthusiasm shown all through the examination and also declared that the pupils of St. Stanislaus Day School are up-to-date. John Damborine, Thomas Luc. Jno. Kachler, Irving Fayard, Paul Fayre,

The Facts of the Telephone Situation in Mississippi

By J. Epps Brown, President.

CUMBERLAND TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Why Telephone Material Is So Scarce

The telephone material supply situation is always one of factory capacity, labor, raw materials and transportation. Prior to August, 1914, the supply of raw materials: the manufactured output; labor and transportation, was adequate. As a result prices were low and deliveries prompt. From June, 1916, to April, 1917, (when this country entered the war) prices averaged an advance of nearly 100 per cent and deliveries became intolerably slow.

Raw materials for telephone purposes are obtained from all parts of the world. Platinum, used in switchboards, came from Russia.

Silk, used in vast quantities for insulating wires, comes from Japan. Old manilla rope, used in making paper for insulating wires in cables, comes from the wharves of the world.

Diamonds, used in drawing out fine wire for use in switchboards, came from Europe.

Many other illustrations could be given. These foreign sources of raw materials supply were eliminated during the period of the European war and are now far be-

Lead, copper, iron and tin, used in large quantities in the manufacture of telephone equipment and materials, are also essential for the making of munitions. The war greatly reduced the available amount of raw materials and lessened the telephone manufacturer's production.
Strikes in industrial centers which fur-embargoes on railroads essential to transportation of both raw materials and the fin-ished products, are prime factors in the present shortage in telephone materials and facilities.

The factories of our suppliers have capacity for much larger output, but strikes, shortage of productive labor, lack of fuel, shortage of transportation facilities and embargoes affecting the sources of raw materials, have greatly interfered with their possible output.

Today, with prices higher than war prices, the demand greater than ever known, current production is far lass than the demand, being approximately 40 per cent below the average, with deliveries slow and uncertain.

In the face of this condition the demand for telephone service has increased and continues to increase enormously.

To meet this demand all available surplus facilities and materials were gradually but constantly put into use.

When the United States entered the war in 1917, the Government needs were of course, given precedence and only a small part of the available raw materials manufactured from that date until the signing of the armistice was alloted to telephone companies.

This was true even during the period when the Government was in possession and control of the telephone properties of this country.

The greater part of the available tele-phone equipment and materials was sent to France, none of which was ever returned.

On August 1st, 1919, when the telephone properties were returned to the owners by the United States Government, the available supply of equipment and material was so small and the needs of the telephone companies in this country so great, that all the telephone factories in the United States, working day and night, could not within three years have furnished the equipment and materials necessary to restore the facilities to the pre-war status.

The equipment and material required by this Company to complete its 1920 construction program, will equal 1,400 car-loads of freight, averaging 40,000 pounds to the car, hauled from different parts of this country and delivered at hundreds of places in the five states in which the Company operates. This is equal to thirty-five trains of an average of forty cars per train, or 28,000 tons of materials. Every business man knows what this means. Freight shipments from the industrial centers of the North and East ordinarily were delivered within two or three weeks: now a much longer time is required. The Western Electric Company is the largest manufacturer of telephone equipment and materials in the world. It has representatives in all the markets of the world. It buys its raw materials in vast quantities at the lowest possible prices. The Western Electric Company furnishes this Company with the bulk of its equip-ment and materials and acts as our Supply

It did not accept any contracts from any foreign government prior to the date the United States entered the war and only than at the instance of the United States Government. It thus held itself in readi-ness to serve at its maximum efficiency the needs of the telephone industry in this

It has a capacity for a much larger output, but strikes, shortage of productive labor, lack of fuel and shortage of transportation, facilities affecting the securing of adequate raw materials—has curtailed its

We have not relied entirely on the Western Electric Company, but have placed orders with other manufacturers where they could promise deliveries. Each manufac-turer with whom we have placed orders is confronted with the same problems in securing his supply of raw materials.

In the face of all these difficulties the manufacturers are turning out in excess of what was their normal output.

The next advertisement will show the effect of the increased costs of labor and material upon the Company's operations during the past four years.

Expert to Keep Pests Away During Summer Season.

By preventing flies from tormenting the cows much greater flow of milk is secured during the summer months and the remainder of the lactation period. The following home-made mixture has given good results at the college dairy farm. It is better than several other mixtures tried and quite as efficient as the prepared sprays costing a dollar per gallon. It is made as

11/2 quarts of any standard coal tar

11/2 quarts fish oil. 1 pint of oil of tar.

1 quart of coal oil. 1/2 pint of oil of Eucalyptus. Mix in ten gallons of lukewarm soft water in which a bar of laundry soap has been dissolved. Spray twice a day, in the morning after milking and in the afternoon when cows are brought in for silage or green feed. When a half barrel cart with spray nozzle attachment is used two men can spray a herd of forty cows in ten minutes. This mixture is not perfect and does not keep all the flies away and, furthermore, it leaves the coat rather harsh and causes dust to adhere; however, it is very beneficial and practical and results in more milk and greater comfort.-H. KILL STABLE FLIES QUICKLY

Ten Per Cent Solution of Formalin in Milk Sprinkled in Gutters Is Recommended.

A quick and sure method of killing stable dies is to make a 10% solution of formalin in wilk and sprinkle it on the cement floors and gutters. The flies are attracted to it and are killed in 30 minutes. Then the floors are washed and the stable is clean for the day This operation is repeated each morning as long as necessary. At the beginning of the campaign it will take several mornings to clear out the flies, but after that it will be necessary to do it only as often as they become bothersome. Their breeding place in the manure pile outside the stable should be done away with and the manure drawn out daily to the fields or placed in a fly tight pit.

Hereafter it will be "milk cow" and not "milch cow"—at least so far as the United States department of agriculture is concerned.

This decision marks the termination of a controversy in which elymologists in the department have had not a little interest. Those defending "milch" have pointed to scriptural use and certain of the classics as establishing precedents, while the opposition, has contended that dairymen, ranchmen and farmers in general use "milk" instead of "milch" almost universally, The advocates of "milk" also favored that word because, they contended, it was more strictly an English word, while "milch" was akin to German. Since Americanization of language as well as ideals is an article in every patriot's creed, it is thought that this last sally of the 'milk' defenders helped as much as any to decide the question in their fayor.
